Report on Faculty Development Program
Organized by
Vivek P.G. College, Kalwar
On
Guidance and Counselling
(Period: 16 September 2019 – 21 September 2019)

Guidance and counseling are essential educational tools in shaping a child's orientation from negative ideas planted by his/her peers. Hence, there is a need for college for the counselor to assist the child in molding their future through counseling therapy. The college counselor is seen as a role model and is highly respected by students. Through their training, the counselors are expected to be friends with the school child, listen to the child's complaints and shortcomings, and guide the child to mold the child on the right path to take in their life pursuit. The main objective of the Faculty Development Program is to study the role of guidance and counselling in college, Counselor's work area and so on. Our honorable speakers briefly discussed the benefits of counselling for students in college, including academic, career and personal/social development. Along with this the basic assumptions, characteristics, and steps of nondirective and directive counseling were discussed in details. The session covered psychological theories pertinent to student development and effective counselling techniques. Participants engaged in hands-on training sessions focused on communication skills, active listening, and empathy. Role-playing exercises were conducted to simulate counselling scenarios, allowing participants to practice and refine their skills. The focus shifted to creating actionable strategies for establishing guidance and counselling frameworks within educational institutions. Case studies and group discussions provided insights into real-world application and problem-solving.

This six-day FDP on Guidance and Counselling successfully met its objectives by providing faculty with valuable insights and tools for effective student guidance and counseling. Continued support and follow-up sessions are recommended to further enhance the implementation of these strategies.
